European Jewry around 1400: Disruption, Crisis, and Resilience

An International Conference

Europas Juden um 1400: Brüche, Krisen und Resilienz

Internationale Konferenz

29 September – 2 October, 2013

Convened by/Veranstaltet von
Lukas Clemens & Christoph Cluse
Arye Maimon-Institut

The aim of this conference is to place the various convulsive events affecting European Jewish communities in the decades from c. 1380 to c. 1420 in a wider context, looking for the effects they have had on one another, and to assess the lasting impact on Judaism in Europe as a whole.

We are curious about the common factors that helped to shape these events in the religious relations, politics, and economies of the continental and Mediterranean worlds. We will also ask how the various Jewish communities reacted to the disruption, and how they recovered (if in fact they did).

Das Ziel dieser Konferenz ist eine Zusammenschau der diversen radikalen Strukturbrüche, denen die jüdischen Gemeinschaften in Europa in den Jahrzehnten von ca. 1380 bis ca. 1420 ausgesetzt waren. Die Konferenz fragt nach den wechselseitigen Einflüssen und den nachhaltigen Wirkungen dieser Ereignisse auf das europäische Judentum.

Welche gemeinsamen Faktoren in Religion, Herrschaft und Ökonomie kennzeichnen die unterschiedlichen Vorgänge in Kontinentaleuropa und im mediterranen Raum? Wie reagierten die jüdischen Gemeinden? Konnten sie sich davon erholen, und wenn ja, wie?
